

Demos Confident Atomic Power Reactors Near

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some Democrats voiced confidence today that Congress soon will send President Eisenhower a program for government construction of atomic power reactors.

These Democrats also said they are certain Eisenhower will sign the bill even though his administration opposes the power reactor proposals. They noted that the bill contains all of the regular authorizations for Atomic Energy Commission construction in the year ahead.

Several Democratic sponsors of the power reactor program took this view after the Senate yesterday defeated all administration efforts to knock key reactor projects out of a 380-million-dollar Atomic energy authorization bill. The measure then was passed by voice vote.

The outcome was different in the House, which last week stripped from the measure all but one of the key reactor provisions inserted by the Democratic majority in the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee. The House version follows more closely the administration's recommendations.

The bill now goes to conference, but Democrats from the joint committee will be in the majority among both Senate and House conferees. In that situation, the sponsors of the reactor program say they are sure they can save a good part of it, although some concessions may be made.

The authorization measure must be enacted promptly so Congress can appropriate the money for the construction projects before it adjourns.

Nature Girl to Get Look at New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Dorothy Brown, 16-year-old North Carolina "nature girl," arrived today to take a look at New York—and for New York to take a look at her. Both will get an eyeful.

The tall, blue-eyed beauty—backwoods, lass-though she may be—displayed all the composure of a Park Avenue debutante as she stepped off a train at Pennsylvania Station into a hectic reception from a throng of newsmen and photographers.

She didn't have much time for interviews, considering the sight-seeing, news conferences, television appearances and other activities scheduled ahead.

"I don't know what all I will be doing here," she said, but expressed eagerness to see all the usual tourist sights.

She acknowledged that she part of her time on the train trip from Charlotte, N. C., reading fan mail inspired by newspaper accounts of her beauty.

One letter, from a middle-aged Louisiana man, proposed marriage.

Dorothy laughed about that, but quickly added:

"Oh, he's probably lonely, and I feel sorry for him."

A newspaperman discovered Dorothy living with her parents and six brothers and sisters in a two-room cabin near Mooresville, N. C. The news impressed by her natural beauty and poise.

Her natural beauty and poise, but Dorothy into headlines around the country.

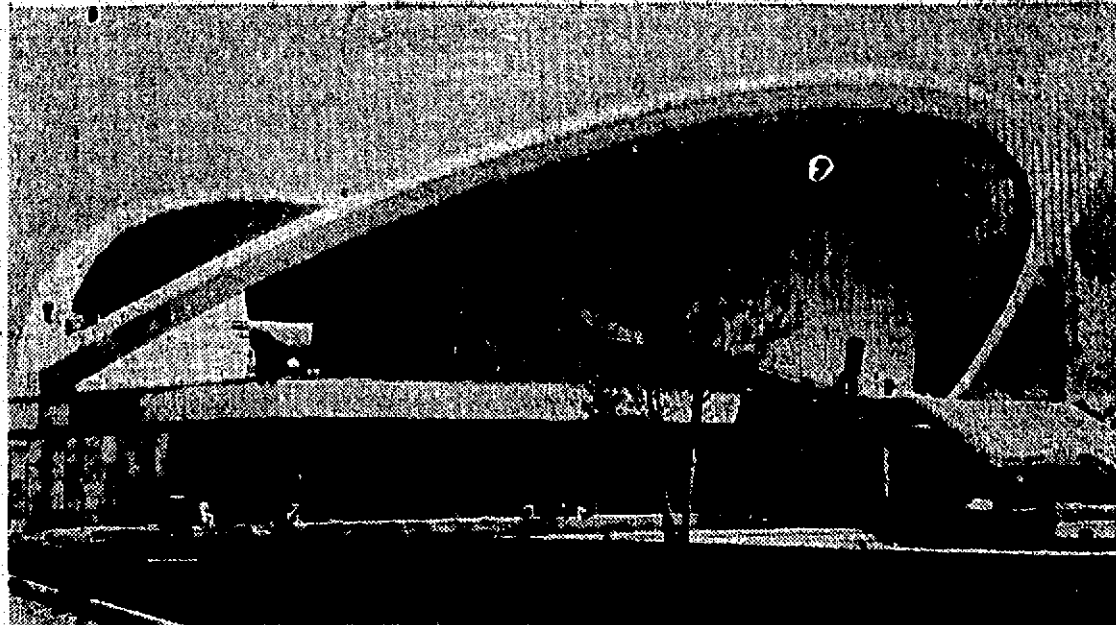

The trip here was the second train ride of her life. The first was on a 16-mile journey from Statesville to Mooresville, N. C., when she was a child.

West Memphis Vote Before Grand Jury

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The federal grand jury here has been ordered to reconvene Sept. 23 and sign point to a resumption of the panels' investigation of alleged election irregularities in a West Memphis ward.

Federal Judge Harry J. Lemley yesterday ordered the jury to reconvene on the September date.

Last February the jury confiscated three ballot boxes and a voting list in Ward 4-South at West Memphis. The election concerned the November 1956 general election.

SHAPING UP—The huge modernistic Congress Hall of West Berlin, built under joint U.S.-West German government sponsorship at a cost of $3,500,000, is nearing completion. Inauguration of the 1,400-seat hall is scheduled for Sept. 19.

TB Sanatorium Praised Highly by Committee

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Tuberculosis Sanatorium was described as "one of the outstanding tuberculosis institutions in the country" by a Legislative Council committee.

The committee investigated charges that the Booneville institution was being poorly managed. The Committee on Charitable and Penal Institutions, headed by Perry County Rep. Paul Van Dalsem, made two suggestions for improvement.

The report suggested that the management avoid placing persons suspected of having tuberculosis in wards with active tuberculosis cases until a definite diagnosis is made. It also suggested that future action in the name of the board not be taken without majority approval.

Dr. George Rodkey, former medical director of the institution, charged that there was a "dictatorship" at the hospital, that some patients and employees did not receive proper treatment and that the management was not making proper use of anti-tubercular drugs.

Van Dalsem asked Rodkey, who has taken a job in Idaho, to appear before the committee and make his charges under oath. Rodkey said that he could not afford the trip back to Arkansas.

At the hearing, one former patient complained that she was in an active ward for a year before it was determined that she did not have tuberculosis. Another former patient compared the institution with a "dairy barn."

However, Sen. Artie Gregory of North Little Rock, a former patient, compared the sanatorium to the famous Mayo Clinic.

The committee report said that Rodkey's charges apparently were "the outgrowth of personality clashes and differences of opinion over the management of the institution."

Trial Date Set of Alleged Soviet Spy

NEW YORK (INS)—Federal Judge Matthew T. Abruzzo today set Sept. 16 as the date for trial of 35-year-old Rudolph Ivanovich Abel, alleged head of Soviet espionage in the U.S.

Abel, a colonel in the Russian state police, is accused of having operated a KGB spy-atomic spy ring for the Kremlin in this country for the past four years, his photographer in Brooklyn.

The prisoner, when taken before Judge Abruzzo in Brooklyn federal court shortly before noon, was asked by the judge if he had obtained a lawyer.

He said he had not. His case had been postponed twice in order that he could get an attorney.

Judge Abruzzo asked the thin, bald-headed and bespectacled defendant if he wanted the court to appoint a lawyer for him. Abel shrugged his shoulders indecisively.

"Do you want me to appoint one lawyer or two?" inquired the judge.

"I don't know if it would make much difference," replied Abel in good English.

Judge Abruzzo told him the court would get in touch with the Brooklyn Bar association as soon as possible and that he expected to have the name of a lawyer for him by Monday.

The government seized $21,000 of Abel's money at the time of his arrest on July 21.

Abel asked the court if he could have about $300 and the judge ordered the government counsel to "give him $250."

Result of Cotton Study Is Revealed in Detail

Some 60 cotton producers, insecticide dealers and others interested in cotton attended the field day meeting at the Jesse Burke farm Thursday. Research workers of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture explained step by step results of work under way involving cotton varieties, fertilization, insect control and use of systems.

The cotton insect control work was discussed by Dr. Tom Leigh, Entomologist in charge. He said that the boll weevil infestations are of two types depending on the time of planting of the cotton. The early planted fields have required insecticide applications for the past two to four weeks while in the late planting, the fields to date have not reached the requirement for insecticide application.

Leaf worms have appeared in a few fields, but are easily controlled with the insecticide applied for the control of the other insects. Dr. Leigh urged using of the Extension leaflet on cotton insects for 1957 as a guide.

Leigh discussed the three levels of treatment for control of weevils as being conducted by the Research Staff at the Experiment Station. These levels considered overwintering weevils, first generation weevils and infestations of not over 40% for the season's average. The plots where this work was being done was observed by those in attendance.

Systemic insecticides were tried again this year on the Burke farm. The planting injury noticed in the 1956 season has not appeared.

A new experimental insecticide, Sevin, is being tested for the first time.

Charles Hughes, Agronomist, advised the group that this was the first year for the cotton variety test for the Houston Clay soils. The object of the cotton variety testing is to keep up to date information on the popular varieties, check new varieties, not the differences in characteristics between the different varieties and to determine the adaptability of these varieties to the different sections of the State.

Cotton fertility research was led by Dr. Glenn Hardy, Director in charge. The experiments were being conducted to study the effect of time of applications of nitrogenous fertilizer. It seemed by the present appearance of the cotton in the test that the 120 lbs. per acre of nitrogen ahead of planting has not shown a nitrogen deficiency as the plants have made excellent growth. All plots treated received the uniform application of 90 lbs. per acre of Phosphoric Acid and 50 lbs. per acre of Potash.

Cecil Bittie, Director of Station, and Oliver L. Adams, County Agent planned and directed the field meet. For specific questions on the test, consult Mr. Bittie or Mr. Adams.

Police Association Elects President

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Police Chief Norman Young of Pine Bluff has been elected president of the Arkansas Municipal Police Association which today ended a 2-day annual convention here.

Young was elected in a business session yesterday.

Other officers for 1957-58 are Herman Higgs of El Dorado, first vice president; C. M. Childress of Hot Springs, second vice president; R. E. Bruns of Little Rock, secretary; and O. A. Allen of Little Rock, treasurer.

Delegates voted yesterday to hold next year's convention at Hot Springs.

Minuteman Rockefeller addressed the delegates at a banquet last night.

Lacy Returns to Answer More Question

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Big, gravel-voiced Martin T. Lacy returns for more questioning today on how hoodlums allegedly cooperating with James R. Hoffa, helped out him as New York City's Teamsters boss.

The Senate Racket Committee charges Lacy was involved in a 1956 election it says was rigged to put in John J. O'Rourke as president of Teamsters' Joint Council 10. O'Rourke was backed by Teamsters Union. Hoffa is expected to succeed Teamsters President Dave Beck as head of the nation's biggest union.

O'Rourke, in the witness chair yesterday, invoked the Fifth Amendment time and again in refusing to tell how he became president of the council. He also refused to say whether he knows Hoffa or labor racketeer Johnny Dio.

The committee contends Hoffa was allied with Dio in ousting Lacy through the device of phony Teamster locals that allegedly threw their voting weight to O'Rourke.

Hoffa's objective, the committee says, was to extend his already big labor power and that Dio's aim was to fatten his income from labor rackets.

Lacy, who has been with the trucking union more than half century, denied to newsmen suggestions made in the hearings that he was approached with a 10,000 bribe to withdraw in O'Rourke's favor.

"No such offer was ever made," the 74-year-old Lacy told reporters in advance of his second appearance before the committee.

But one of several secretly recorded telephone conversations between New York racketeers Tony (Ducks) Corallo, Dio and Sam Goldstein seemed to speak of discussing such an offer with Lacy. That was the interpretation put on the recording by investigating senators after they heard it played at the hearing.

Another wiretapped phone conversation between the hoodlums told how Lacy wept "like a babe in the woods" in protesting, "If they would come and hit me with bats that would be all right. But not the way they done it to me."

2,000 Contract Asiatic Flu

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Public Health Service said today 20,000 to 25,000 Americans, possibly more, have been stricken with Asiatic flu since June 1.

The service made this estimate as Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney disclosed a plan to allocate vaccine for the new kind of flu among the 48 states on a population basis.

Last night the Senate Appropriations committee restored a $200,000 cut which the administration had made in funds asked by Burney for combating the new malady. Health service officials had said the cut would seriously hamper their fight against the expected epidemic.

In reporting the 20,000 to 25,000 estimate, a Public Health official emphasized that the total number of Asiatic flu cases may be higher. But he refused to suggest a possible maximum.

California, with 17,000 cases, has been hardest hit than any other state. Of the California cases, 4,350 were civilians and 15,000 were members of the armed forces.

Wiggling Fingers Save Couple From a Killer

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The fingers protruding from the trunk of the passing car wiggled at him frantically.

"I thought I was seeing things," said Lloyd L. Reavis, a driver's license examiner who was giving a test.

He looked again, jotted down the tag number and summoned motorcycle patrolman John Davis.

Davis stopped the automobile and, holding the driver at gunpoint, released a bedraggled young couple from the trunk. "I could hear these people screaming inside," Davis said.

The driver identified himself as James Richard Esson, 35, a fugitive Ohio killer. An automatic pistol lay on the seat beside him but he offered no resistance.

The victims, Almar Carl A. Wagner, 21, and his pregnant wife, Molly, 18, of Salina, Kan., told a tale of terror which began at 2:30 yesterday morning.

It was then that they stopped at Kingdom City, Mo., 65 miles west of St. Louis on U. S. 49, and picked up a hitchhiker, Esson, while on their way home from a vacation trip.

Esson pulled a gun and look over not long afterward.

The rest of the night, the couple said, was one of horror during which Esson pistol-whipped Wagner several times and kept them both, bound and gagged, in the trunk.

Several times, Mrs. Wagner said, Esson stopped, opened the trunk, pointed the pistol at them and pulled the trigger. It clicked, but did not fire.

"It scared us to death," Mrs. Wagner said. "Then he would apologize for the way he was treating us."

The Wagners worked loose from their bonds and succeeded in prying open the trunk enough to try and attract attention. First they looked out what objects they could find in the trunk. Then Wagner stuck his fingers through the narrow opening and Reavis spotted them.

Rotary Enjoys a Musical Program

The Rev. W. C. Land presented the Hope Gospel Tabernacle Orchestra in a musical program at the luncheon meeting of Hope Rotary Club Friday noon at the Barlow Hotel.

Under the direction of S. Joseph Gono, the following numbers were rendered in a most effective and beautiful manner: "Symbol of Honor," "Gospel Medley," "God of Our Fathers," and "Mrs. Maxine White, soloist sang 'Cleanse Me' and 'Jesus Alone'."

Others performing with the orchestra were: June Evans, Hugh Evans, Bill Land, Jr., Sammy Stewart, Carolyn Ferguson, Albert L. Hargis, Curtis O'Steen, Robert Story, Roy Tullis, Mary Knighton, Myra Ann Lemley, Carolyn Maxwell, Betty Rateliff and Linda Evans.

Other guests of the club included Cecil Bittie, J. M. Barwick, both of Hope, and Bill Gough, Texarkana. Visiting Rotarians were: Cecil W. Watson, Texarkana, Lyman Armstrong, Madison, Indiana and Ed Thomas, Texarkana.

Challenges Theory of Heart Fat

NEW YORK (AP)—The Nutrition Committee of the American Heart Association has challenged the assumption that too much fat in the diet is a major factor in heart attacks.

The five-man committee reported yesterday that hardening of the arteries—precursor of heart disease and strokes—could result not only primarily from diet but from heredity, blood pressure and body chemistry.

Said the committee report, in part: "People want to know whether they are eating themselves into premature heart disease. They are entitled to an unprejudiced answer."

There is not enough evidence available to permit a rigid stand on what the relationship is between nutrition, particularly the fat content of the diet, and arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) and coronary heart disease.

"We are certain of one thing: the evidence now in existence justifies the most thorough investigation."

No Chance of Re-valuation of U. S. Dollar

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—France's tinkering with the value of its franc in foreign trade has opened up the whole Pandora's box of world currency troubles and blocked some quick reaction today, from both officials and civilian traders.

Washington officials say there isn't a chance that the U.S. dollar will be revealed again. The last time that was done legally was on Jan. 31, 1934, when the dollar was devalued sharply as an antidepression measure. Its market value has slipped, badly since—but that's another matter.

1. The British—in trouble themselves with a somewhat shaky pound and a widening trade gap—say they won't cut the pound's official rate. But they believe Germany should raise the value of the mark and thus give the British and French a better shake in the fight for world markets.

2. The British—in trouble themselves with a somewhat shaky pound and a widening trade gap—say they won't cut the pound's official rate. But they believe Germany should raise the value of the mark and thus give the British and French a better shake in the fight for world markets.

3. West Germany's economic minister, admitting that the mark is worth more now than the official rate, proposes instead that the United States call a world conference at which all currencies could be revalued.

4. Foreign trade circles here doubt if the partial devaluation of the franc will have much offset on the two-way trade between this country and France—whatever turmoil it may cause among France's European neighbors.

For trade and tourist purposes France has dropped the franc from its former official rate of 550 to the U.S. dollar to 420 to the dollar, which is closer to the real, or black market, value. New York bankers looked this over for a day or so and have now set a going rate of exchange here of 416 2/3 francs to the dollar.

The National Foreign Trade Council points out that "imports from the United States have been rather rigorously controlled in any event and held for the most part to essentials." It foresees little change.

Recent re-imposition of quantitative import controls by France would cut imports from the United States sharply the rest of the year, foreign traders believe.

Mexico Foils Plans of Rebels

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Interior Department says Mexican authorities have foiled the plans of a group of Cuban rebels who sought to sail for Cuba to join other dissidents opposed to the Batista regime.

An announcement last night said immigration police broke up an expedition planning to sail yesterday from the port of Tuxpan for Cuba. Two boats were seized.

Police said their investigation showed the group was not allied directly with rebel leader Fidel Castro, but that it was preparing to promote "discontent" and join any other factions in an effort to overthrow Cuban President Fulgencio Batista.

Eight men were taken in custody in Mexico City, at Tapan and in the oil center of Boca Ricon, south of Tuxpan, police said.

They added that the eight planned to pick up additional supporters in the Triangulo Islands off Mexico and obtain armaments in a Caribbean country.

Ex-Spa Alderman Dies Playing Golf

HOT SPRINGS (AP)—J. B. Johns, former Hot Springs alderman and educator, died yesterday of a heart attack while playing golf at the Hot Springs Country Club. He was 74.

Johns operated the Johns Business College here for many years and was prominent in civic affairs.

He was well-known in golfing circles and recently won the Oklahoma Senior Golf Championship at Oklahoma City.

Survivors include the widow, two sons and two sisters.

Swell Cheats Campbell of Boat Record

CANANDIAGUA, N. Y. (AP)—Britain's Donald Campbell broke the water barrier on Canandaigua Lake today. But a swell produced by a pleasure boat prevented him from breaking his own world water mark of 225.63 miles an hour.

The speedboat king hit a top speed of 240 m.p.h. on his first run over the one-kilometer course. When his Bluebird struck the swell, the jet-powered hydroplane jumped two feet out of the water for more than 300 feet.

The Bluebird's bladders were damaged. Campbell estimated that damage to the boat during his runs here totaled $40,000.

The swell slowed Campbell's average on the first run to 220.83 m.p.h. He made only 198.67 on the second run, which is necessary to be eligible for a world mark.

Thus his 209.75 average for the two runs was far below the 225.63 he set last year at Lake Coniston, England.

Campbell has complained repeatedly of interference on a by pleasure boats since he came here last June 26 to make the record attempt.

He said the Bluebird was damaged July 18 when the wash from a pleasure boat splashed water down the jet pipe of the red-hot engine.

This morning's near disaster was the straw that broke the camel's back, Campbell remarked. He said the damages would not be repaired for months.

Campbell's venture was also a flop financially.

The local promoters said few persons had turned out to see Campbell and his Bluebird.

Lagging Disarm Talks Drag Into Another Session

By WATSON SIMS

LONDON (AP)—If the U.N. disarmament subcommittee talks drag on much longer, many members of the technical staff may find themselves needed for duty in two places at the same time.

Should the London five-power arms talks—which already have lasted five months—go on another three weeks, the conference might collide with the convening of the U.N. General Assembly in New York.

The Assembly usually meets the third Tuesday in September. But this year the United States has asked that the Assembly go into special session a week earlier to consider a subcommittee report on the Hungarian revolt.

The 11th Assembly recessed last March subject to the call of its president, Prince Wan Waihuayakon of Thailand, if it was decided further action on Hungary was necessary.

The technical side of the disarmament conference is handled by some 60 members of the U.N. Secretariat under Dr. Dragoslav Protitch, undersecretary for Security Council affairs.

Most of the interpreters, parliamentary recorders and administrative employees now assigned to London normally have other duties in New York when the Assembly meets. In the past there has been no conflict.

The present prospect of a conflict in assignments has led to speculation in Western quarters that the disarmament conference, if it continues, might be shifted to New York later this year. No decision has been reached.

The subcommittee technically is free to meet anywhere that can be agreed upon by its five members—the United States, Russia, France, Britain and Canada.

Following this meeting a benefit dance will be held at the National Guard Armory.

Tickets for the dance are currently being sold and all proceeds will be used to construct an observation building in Hope. This building will serve the community by reporting weather, as a first aid station, to report aircraft in the area when alerted to do so and to help with any civilian emergency in this area.

Young members of the GOC currently selling tickets include Don Oglesby, Penny Roberts, Delton Hatfield, Buddy Roberts, Robert Storey, Sharon Roberts, Glenda Kelly, Bonnie Clark, William Walden, James House, Glendon Keith, Billy Walters, Jerry Browning, Albert Hargis and Sue Houston.

The GOC needs and must have the support of the public. Do your part to help by attending the town meeting and listen to facts about the organization and how it concerns you.

Chinese Claim Plot Is Broken

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China says it has wiped out a large-scale, anti-revolutionary organization that was plotting to overthrow the Red government.

A Peiping radio broadcast last night identified the dissident group as the China Justice Salvation Army and said it had operated in Shensi province west of Sian.

The broadcast said the organization was made up of "bandits" and reactionary local bosses who had been holding secret meetings and trying to build up their numbers. It added that security troops arrested the leader of the group and captured all its weapons and documents.

Says Dept. Illegally Tapped Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Government Operations Committee says the State Department has illegally tapped the secretary's emergency fund for more than a half million dollars in the last 14 years to pay for public opinion polls.

The committee approved and made public last night a report by a subcommittee which rapped the Budget Bureau for what it termed a failure to check properly on the poll program.

Graham Talks on Dating, Petting

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Graham, aiming at teen-agers, will talk tonight about what to do about sex, petting, dating, etc.

The evangelist is devoting his Madison Square Garden sermons this week to juvenile delinquency and the problems of youth.

The audience has had heavy percentages of teen-agers.

The evangelist, addressing 18,000 persons last night, discussed his "decision for Christ" when he was 18.

He told his youthful listeners that they might have to break off with "the old gang" if they took a stand for Christ.

Graham recalled that he went back to play with his baseball team down South the day after he had gone up and taken a stand for Christ at an evangelistic service.

"I told the captain I wanted to make an announcement," he said. "I told them what I had done. . . There was a dead silence. . . Finally, some of the fellows came up and said, 'We're for you, Billy. You're a good guy.'"

"But from then on, it was never the same,"

Graham's staff reported 673 "decisions for Christ" at the meeting.

Lonely Platypus to Get a Mate

SYDNEY (AP) — An Australian zoo official said today Cecil, the lonely platypus in the Bronx Zoo in New York, can have a new mate from Down Under.

Cecil's former mate, Penelope, has disappeared.

Sir Edward Hallstrom, chairman of Sydney's Taronga Park Zoo, said: "When we receive a formal request we will get about getting a female. It would take two to three months to acclimate it to its new home here. Then it could be on its way in New York."

Cecil is a platypus, a small, shrew-like animal with a duck's bill.

STAMPEDE AT BLUE SPRINGS

CHAPTER XXX

We walked toward the depot in the warm sun. When last I looked, Peterson stood behind his desk, staring out the window east toward the ricks of bones.

"I said, 'Maybe I ought to stay in Blue Springs, Harney.'"

Blanchard put his hand on my shoulder and gripped hard. "You go if Dorsey comes. Like we said, 'You'd be crazy not to.'"

"But in there, you said, 'You don't have to prove anything. This town does.'"

Blanchard had a way of making things right for me. You had a trouble, you talked to him about it. He picked out the sense in it for you and you had it about whiffed. It was the thing I'd missed most, maybe, not being able to spread out a trouble and have somebody pick it apart. A father would do that for his boy.

It seemed to me. Any father except Chad Amorse. Old Chad never gave me much chance, that was for sure. But maybe if I'd asked for some help, he'd wanted to get himself in shape to give me some help.

John McNabb stopped my thinking. He stepped around the corner of the depot just when me and Blanchard got there. I could see the spot on his shirt, star shaped, where it wasn't stung.

McNabb said, Marshal, you remember me? You talked to me the night—

"Sure, I remember."

"There's something I got to tell you. About Cole Jethroe. You seen him?"

Blanchard nodded.

"Be careful of Cole, marshal. Cole don't look so bad and to talk to him . . . but you watch out for Cole. He's a bar-b-wire mean. Cole can be more trouble than both of us put together. Tell you the truth, I think Cole's a mite crazy, marshal. This whole thing, he's at the bottom. It's a thing like Cole would do, waiting until everything was just right."

"Why tell me this now?"

"Well, I don't rightly know, marshal. I reckon I feel a little bit sorry for you. What I mean is, I been a lawman too long to just take it off like a suit of clothes. Been in some bad spots in my time. Nothing bad as yours, though. I know how a man needs a little help in a bad spot."

"I'm much obliged, Blanchard said. 'I've been wondering about you.'"

"I ain't been sleepin' much. It's sure a lot easier to face trouble than to back down from it, in the long run."

"For most men," Blanchard said.

"I ain't making excuses but I didn't see what there was I could do but what I did do. I couldn't do it alone. A man's not a town marshal without the town siding him."

"You had to decide," Blanchard said. "You did."

"Yeah. But had to tell you about Cole, anyway. Maybe just so I could say I helped Harney Blanchard. Funny thing, Mr. Blanchard. Out here in the cow towns we hear a lot about federal marshals, the ones like you, anyway. I reckon most of us hope some day we'll get a chance to work with one of you. Maybe learn how you do things. Well, it's funny. Here's my chance. Only I'm not marshaling any more."

"The town might ask you to be marshal again, before this day is over. Would you take the job?"

"You mean, Peterson? He's thinking of going against the Clements?"

Blanchard looked back toward Peterson's office. "Well, he's thinking. Would you take the job?"

McNabb's shoulders went back and his chin lifted. "Sure," he said.

"All right," Blanchard said. "I'd be proud to have you with us, McNabb."

"I'll be ready," McNabb said. "You'll remember about Cole . . ."

Lillian Jethroe stood on the hotel porch. She saw us and came down the steps. She was without a hat and I saw the excitement in her face.

She said, "I thought you'd never come. Nobody knew where you were."

Blanchard said, "What is it, Lillian?"

"A rider came to me not half an hour ago, at the house. From the Clements. He said that Cole was coming to see me about dark and I should be ready. I knew I should tell you right away."

"All right. Now what you'd better do is take Dick and go stay with somebody. Take that gun with you and not much else."

"But that might spoil it all! I said I would help. Well, now let me do all that I can! I stay there tonight and wait for Cole. I might find out exactly what you need to know. Would they warn me this way if they intended to hurt me?"

"I don't know," Blanchard said.

Lillian looked at me. "What do you think, Pike?" She waited for the answer. I'd just heard McNabb warn us about Cole.

I knew that if she really wanted to do that she would do it and even if a rowdy Blanchard couldn't stop her. I said, "Maybe it's all right."

Blanchard frowned. I could see him thinking he'd been out-voted and he didn't like it. Then he

Names Woman to Sheriff's Office

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus today named Mrs. Lee Temple of Warren to serve out her late husband's unexpired term as sheriff of Bradley County.

The governor also appointed the five members of the commission which will supervise restoration of the Civil War battlefield at Prairie Grove.

The five are Glenn Will, W. J. Leake and Mrs. Lee Seamster of Fayetteville and Mrs. J. C. Parks and Fred McCullist of Prairie Grove.

Albert Herlinger of Jonesboro and Les Stewart of Rison were appointed to the qualified petroleum gas board.

A credit bureau here collected $46,033 for the Medical Center and received $10,473 in commissions, the audit showed.

Sen. Roy Milum of Harrison said that Milum of the Medical Center should be collecting the money. Approval of the audit was delayed for further study.

$389 Million Atom Bill Is Debated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today debates a 389-million-dollar Atomic Energy Commission authorization bill which includes a disputed program of government-built power reactors.

Democrats expressed confidence they can keep the power program in the bill, but Eisenhower administration forces were ready to try to knock it out.

The House already has rejected most of the power provisions, which are strongly opposed by AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss.

The biggest part of the bill would authorize AEC construction projects for both military and peaceful uses. There is no dispute over most of the items.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.), a member of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, told a reporter in advance of the debate "I believe we can keep the bill in good shape without crippling amendments."

Senators Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), Bricker (R-Ohio) and Knowland (R-Calif.), all members of the committee, offered amendments to knock out the Democratic-sponsored provisions for 58 million dollars worth of experimental power reactors.

The bill also would direct the AEC to build reactors for five municipal power groups and rural cooperatives, then sell them steam at a price based on that from the use of conventional fuels. The House has rejected this.

Hickenlooper said in an interview the fight over these proposals was "a straight private vs. public power issue." He said the controversial provisions seek to put AEC "into a field it does not want to be in and in which it has no business."

Democrats dispute the GOP contention. They say they are not advocating reactors which will enable the American atomic energy industry to get off the ground.

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said in a speech prepared for the debate that Great Britain has tripled its original plans for atomic development.

At the same time, he said, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, "which in 1955 was forecasting two million electrical kilowatts of nuclear energy (in this country) by 1960, is now talking of one million by 1962."

The three big reactor projects the Republicans will seek to knock out are:

A natural uranium gas-cooled reactor costing 40 millions to be built at the AEC plant in Idaho. It would be similar to Great Britain's Calder Hall plant.

A plutonium recycle reactor costing 15 millions to be built at the Hanford Wash. AEC plant.

A single or dual-purpose plutonium reactor to be built at Hanford. Hickenlooper said this eventually could cost about 100 million dollars, but the bill would authorize three millions for preliminary studies.

The House knocked out the first two of these projects, but kept the third one in the bill.

Different Version of an Old Prank

HOT SPRINGS (AP) — Police said today they have uncovered a slightly different version of the old "brakeman's wife" prank after investigating rural residents' reports of gunfire.

Deputy Sheriff Fred E. Miller and G. N. Walters said that they captured a carload of teen-aged pranksters and that some 12 to 15 were involved in the "shotgun party."
